Massachusetts Nomination,

OF FRIENDS OF PEACE, UNION, COMMERCE AND LIBERTY.

AT a full meeting of Citizens—friends to the true Interests and lasting Honor and Peace of their Country—from every part of the Commonwealth, held in Boston, on the 9th inst. Gen. HOLMAN, of Worcester County, in the chair, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY, to support, at the ensuing April election,

HIS EXCELLENCY

CALEB STRONG, Esquire,

FOR GOVERNOR, and HIS HONOR

WILLIAM PHILLIPS, Esquire,

FOR LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF MASSACHUSETTS,

THE ENSUING YEAR.

CITIZENS OF MASSACHUSETTS!

THE above Candidates have been proved in your service, and found worthy of all confidence. Characters like theirs stand in no need of labored panegyric. But as they are the assured Friends of Peace; and the haters of cruel and unnecessary WAR, and Bloodshed; they are presented for your support and suffrages.

FRIENDS OF HONORABLE PEACE,

Your country your families and posterity again call on you to be up and be doing. What you can do, when you rise in the Majesty of your Strength, the world witnessed in November last. The same zeal,—the same preliminary measures in your municipal meetings,—the same steadiness at the polls—and the same perseverance until their close will INSURE to you with the smiles of Heaven, similar success. Let no man say, my exertions are not wanted; but let every one do his duty, and do it early. Remember—they who seek PEACE and pursue it, shall prosper!—and that "Blessed are the PEACE-MAKERS for they shall be called the children of GOD."

NOMINATIONS.

In NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Hon. JOHN TAYLOR GILMAN, for Governor,

For Counsellors. Hon. JOSIAH SANBORN, NATHAN TAYLOR, ITHAMAR CHASE, ENOCH COLBY, JOHN ORR. ☞"An Union of the Friends of Peace without distinction of political parties."

GEORGE HUNTINGTON, for Lieutenant-Governor. ☞These highly respectable gentlemen were nominated at a meeting of the Friends of Liberty, Peace and Commerce, from all parts of the State, at which Judge BENSON presided. The Albany Gazette thus introduces the nomination:—"The FIRST STATE in the Union rising in her strength, and declaring for LIBERTY, PEACE and COMMERCE. The following nominations will evidence to our sister States that NEW-YORK is in earnest in her opposition to the war; and that her exertions, at the ensuing ELECTION, for a renovation of the Councils of the State, will, under the smiles of Providence, result in a full and complete triumph of Federal principles. The Election in December is given as an earnest of what THE PEOPLE of this State can do—It has placed their VETO on the war."

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

WHAT are the objects of the present War? Answer, the great question now at issue is this, SHALL THE WAR BE CONTINUED TO COMPEL GREAT-BRITAIN TO RELINQUISH THE PRACTISE OF TAKING HER NATIVE SAILORS FROM OUR VESSELS?—This she claims a right to do, and to compel her to relinquish this claim, our Government has declared War against her. Can we by a seven year's war compel her to relinquish this right?—And if we could, is it worth a ten thousandth part of the blood and treasure it will cost? Let wise men ponder, and reply.

GEN. WINCHESTER'S DEFEAT.

A letter from Gen. PORTER, commanding at Niagara, to Gen. DEARBORN, says, "The arrival of several officers of Gen. WINCHESTER'S army at Buffalo, confirms the news of that General and his little army having been killed or captured. These officers state, that such was the hellish ferocity of the savages after the battle, that every person who, by wound or otherwise, was incapable of marching, was instantly butchered by them! The General, and the remainder of his troops, are now crossing to Fort Niagara. The field officers are refused their parole." ☞ The friends of humanity will not pursuit their feelings to be harrowed up by the statements of these men, until further confirmation, after having seen disproved the horrid accounts of the KILLING, SCALPING, and MANGLING of the body of Gen. WINCHESTER (still alive) so pathetically announced in the official Ohio despatches.

The British Packet Chichester, with a mail for England, sailed on Saturday, and will touch in the Chesapeake to take on board Mr. BAKER, the late British Secretary of Legation.

BUFFALO, FEB. 9. By British deserters we learn, that the force which attacked Gen. WINCHESTER was about 300 British regulars, and 8 or 900 Indians; that the battle was well fought; that the English had 150 killed and many wounded, among the latter Colonels PROCTOR and ST. GEORGE (the latter since dead.)—Gen. WINCHESTER'S loss 250 killed, about 300 prisoners, and 300 wounded. A gentleman from Lewiston says," Gen. WINCHESTER and 4 or 500 of his army had arrived at Newark."

Great News from Russia.

[FROM OUR FILES OF London PAPERS TO 11TH JANUARY.]

COMPLETE ROUT AND DEFEAT OF THE FRENCH GRAND ARMY.

RUSSIAN OFFICIALS.

From the Prince of Smolensk [KUTOUSOFF,] to the Emperor—dated

" LANICKA, NOV. 11, (23).

"NAPOLEON, with his Guards, left Orsha on the 8th (20th) for Kohunovo; on the 9th (21st) the last of the enemy marched out from that place, leaving behind them 26 pieces of cannon, and 50 wounded officers. Platoff is in close pursuit of the enemy who is retiring towards Kohnovo.

" Gen. Jarmaloff crossed the Dnieper at Orcha, with 14 battalions of infantry, two of Artillery and two regiments of cavalry to strengthen Platoff's corps. The Russian advanced guard under Miloradovitch, consisting of the 2d and 4th regiments of infantry, and two regiments of cavalry crossed the river at Kopiez on the 11th [22d], and advanced towards Tolotschin to join Jarmaloff's corps. The main Russian army, which was waiting for the supplies of provisions that had remained behind on account of our movements, will pass the Dnieper at Kopiez on the 12th [24th], and march through Staroccha to Tretsergium, from whence they will proceed to Bobr, or Berezina.

" By this movement, should the enemy wish to change his rout (from Bobr over Berezina) towards Igumen, his retreat will be cut off.

" On the 9th (21st) Col. Dawedow obtained intelligence, by an intercepted letter, of the retreat of a depot of the enemy's cavalry to Kopys; he immediately followed their steps, came up with them at the passage of the River, attacked them immediately, made 285 prisoners, and took the whole train. Not contented with this, he passed the Dnieper by swimming, and completed their defeat.

" His detached parties stretch from Stowbyn to the village of Tolotschin, and likewise along the banks of the Dnieper." (Signed) SMOLENSK, Prince.

ANOTHER LETTER

From the same to the same—dated,

" MOHILOW, NOV. 15, [27] 1812.

" The whole army passed the Dniper the 25th and 26th, and took magazines with 12 days provisions."

From General WITTGENSTEIN, to the Emperor ALEXANDER—dated,

" ISUENAYA, NOV. 12, [24] 1812.

" On the 10th Tchichagoff arrived at Borisow, which had been possessed on the 9th by Adj.-Gen Lambert, who defeated Gen. Dombrowsky's corps, making 3000 prisoners, and taking six pieces of cannon, with two standards. The remainder of the enemy fled on the road to Orsha.

" At Kadainoff, Gen. Lambert took 2 pieces of cannon, and from 2 to 300 prisoners, which, with the losses by Minsk, in the course of 8 days, make a loss to the enemy of 11,000 persons, and 24 pieces of cannon.

" Victor and Oudinot are retiring upon Borisoff, followed by Wittgenstein, who on the 11th (23d) took 800 prisoners, and a great quantity of baggage.

" Platoff is at Tolotschin. Wittgenstein on the flank, and Tchichagoff at Borissow, by which the enemy are completely surrounded."

From Gen. WITTGENSTEIN, to the Emperor ALEXANDER—dated,

" Borissow, Nov. 28, 1812.

" I HAD the honor, on the 21st of November, to report submissively to report, that Marshals Victor and Oudinot were retreating before me towards Borissow. I marched after them from the town of Tschituga. Gen. Platow followed the enemy's Grand army. Admiral Tschichagow, was to receive the enemy at Berissow, and by this means it was intended to inclose him on three sides. In consequence of this arrangement, I caused my van-guard under Major-Gen. Wlastow, to pursue the enemy. This General defeated Gen. Dinlin's division, near the town of Patura, and within two days, one Lt.-Colonel, 36 officers, and 2000 men, were made prisoners. As I then perceived the enemy were quickly retreating, I undertook making a flank movement from Kolopenitche, and marched towards the town of Baran, from this point to cut him off from the Lepilka road, and he enabled to act on Wesselowo and Stadiuzy, where he was forming bridges.

When I arrived at the town of Kosnitzy, I received information, that Napoleon would cross the Beresina river, and that Victor's corps formed his rear-guard. I therefore put myself in march to attack him whilst crossing, and desired Gen. Platow to hasten to Borissow, which he accordingly did. He proceeded on the Toletschin road, and after my arrival with the whole corps at Old Borissow, cut off the enemy's rear-guard, consisting of half of Victor's corps, and attacked it on yesterday afternoon.

After a heavy fire of musketry, which continued for four hours, and by the effect of our artillery, the enemy were thrown into disorder, and put to flight; we took one piece of artillery, and 30 officers, and 1000 men were made prisoners. He suffered a great loss besides, in killed and wounded. Meanwhile I sent a flag of truce, to inform the enemy of our superiority of force, and to tell him that he was surrounded, and must surrender. The courage and valor of the troops under my command, together with Gen. Platow's arrival at Borissow, forced the enemy to send me two flags of truce, with information that they surrendered. At midnight, the Generals of Division Parjonneaux, the Brigade Gen. Lecrre, two Colonels, 40 officers, and 800 men, who had already submitted, were brought to me.

At 7 o'clock this morning, the remainder laid down their arms, viz. Generals Camuse and Plamponi, three Colonels, 15 Lieut.-Colonels, 184 officers, and 7,000 men, and delivered up 8 pieces of artillery, 3 standards, and a number of baggage waggons. Among these troops are two regiments of cavalry, one Saxon, and one of Berg, with very good horses.

On such a victory, a similar to which has scarcely hitherto been gained over the French, I take the liberty of congratulating your Majesty, and of laying all these trophies at your Majesty's feet. The Russian side is not great. I am to-day going to attack Napoleon at the town of Studinzy. Admiral Tchichagoff, and Count Platow, will attack him on the other side of the river Beresina.

The same General reports, under date of 13th (24th) Nov. from the village of Decheriga, as follows;—Admiral Tschichagow arrived on the 22d at Borissow, from whence the General of Infantry, Langeron, reports to me, in two letters of the 10th (22d) inst. that Adjutant-General Count Lambert took possession of Borissow on the 9th (21st) and there defeated the whole of Dombrowski's corps, taking 6 cannon, and 2 stands of colors, and making 3000 prisoners; the remainder of this beaten corps, marched off on the road to Orscha. Count Lambert also took 2 pieces of artillery at Rodonow, and made about 3000 prisoners; and had in all, in the course of 8 days, made about 11,000 prisonere, including the sick that were found in the hospitals at Minsk, and taken 24 cannon. Victor and Oudinot are retreating before me towards Borissow. I am in pursuit of them, and yesterday took upwards of 800 prisoners and a number of baggage waggons. The General of Cavalry, Count Platow, is already in pursuit of the enemy's Grand Army towards Tolotschin. Your Imperial Majesty will please to perceive by this statement that we are compressing the enemy on three sides.—General Count Platow pursues them on the rear, I act on their flank, and Admiral Tschichagow will receive them at Borissow.

From the same to the same—dated

" OLD BORISSOW, NOV. 17, [29], 1812.

" Yesterday I reported to your Imperial Majesty that I should proceed to the river Beresina, near Studinzy, which I the same day accomplished. On coming up with the enemy at the above-mentioned passage they halted, and with a very strong force defended the passage, in order to save their baggage and heavy waggons.

" Notwithstanding this, I drove them from their first position, and pursued them three versts. The action continued the whole day. To-day I forced them to cross the river at Studinzy; having done which, they burned the bridge. Ad. Tchichagoff having sent me pontoons, I am now establishing the bridge. I shall then act in concert with him and Count Platoff on the opposite side. Yesterday we took from the enemy one gun and 1500 prisoners; and this day at the passage, we took 12 guns, many more having been thrown into the river.

" Several Staff and General Officers were taken prisoners, besides others of inferior ranks, and more continue to be brought in, which I have not yet been able to take an account of.

" The number of waggons belonging to government and private persons is so great, that a space of half a werst square is so covered with them, that it is impossible either to ride or walk through them; and three companies of the new raised milit a have been employed merely to clear a passage for the army.

" In these vehicles, which chiefly consisted of carriages of different descriptions, sent from Moscow, we found hordes a very great booty for the army; silver and other articles belonging to the churches which were plundered by the enemy in Moscow; we are now collecting them, and shall despatch them to the Governor of Moscow. Congratulating your Majesty on the above, I lay at the feet of your Imperial Majesty a band of colors. The loss in killed and wounded in the course of these two days exceeds 3000 men."

ENGLAND. LONDON, JAN. 5, 1813.

THE WAR IN RUSSIA.

The 29th bulletin of the French Army gives the operations to the 3d December: ☞As our readers have seen the 29th bulletin we shall not insert the summary of it which follows.

THE RUSSIAN OFFICIAL ACCOUNT

Of the operations, states, that after the attack and defeat of Davoust and Ney, Bonaparte left Orsha on the 20th, and took the road to Kokhanoff, or Kokharovo, nearly half-way between Orsha and Bobr, on the direct road to Borissow and Minsk. The line of his march sufficiently shews that his wishes and object were to get to Minsk. The army thus marching upon Kokhanoff, was followed by Platow, who seems to have been called off for that purpose from pursuing Beauharnois. Oudinot and Victor, who had been on the Northern road, near New Lepel and Senno, descended first upon Borissow, followed by Wittgenstein. The movements of the main army under the Prince of Smolensk, we shall for the present avoid touching upon, in order to render the account of the operations of the other Russian armies more clear and distinct.

While Wittgenstein was following Victor and Oudinot, and Platow was on the rear of Bonaparte, Tchichagoff was advancing to Borisow. Dombrowski, with the French advanced guard, had, as we have already shewn, got to Borisow, and defended the passage of the river in that quarter by a tete de pont—but Count Lambert, with the advanced guard of Tchichagoff, drove Dombrowski on the 21st (not 23d, as the French state) from the tete de pont, and pursued him on the Orsha road. Meanwhile Tchichagoff brought up the rest of his army, and was at Borisow on the 24th Nov. Thus the three armies under Platow, Wittgenstein, and Tchichagoff described an angle, Wittgenstein's forming the angular point—or as the Russian official account said, they enclosed the enemy on three sides—Wittgenstein being on their flank, Platow in the rear, and Tchichagoff in the front.

Victor's corps, which at first took the same direction as Oudinot's, and marched upon Borisow, changed its direction, and proceeded up the left bank of the Beresyna. He was closely followed by Wittgenstein, who, on the 27th Nov. attacked him, and made about 4000 prisoners. He then surrounded Pantoureaux' division, and forced it to surrender, to the amount of upwards of 8000 men. Bonaparte first endeavored to pass the Beresyna at Borisow, and sent Oudinot and Dombrowski to attempt it, but the tete de pont, established by the Russians on the other bank, rendered all their efforts fruitless. He then tried it about 10 miles from Borisow, and effected it. Wittgenstein followed him to the Beresyna, and Platow got to Borisow. Tchichagoff was on the opposite side of the river. Being thus able to act in immediate concert, the three Russian Generals attacked the enemy at once on both banks of the Beresyna, and defeated him, driving him back three werste, with great loss in killed and wounded, and 1500 made prisoners. On the 29th (the day Bonaparte says he remained on the field of battle) the Russians took more than 12 pieces of cannon, and forced the enemy to throw a considerable number into the Beresyna. So great a loss also did Bonaparte sustain in baggage and waggons, that "the distance of half a werst was covered with them, so as not to allow persons to pass either on foot or on horseback."

Of Beauharnois' division, the last Russian accounts communicate as little information as the French.

They leave the rest of the French army, which was 70,000 strong before, but after the great battle of the 28th, retreating with all imaginable speed by Plechnechi towards Wilna. Perhaps it is not overrating the loss of the French in that battle, which lasted the whole day, at 15,000 in killed and prisoners. So that the French may be said to be retreating with about 45,000 men, pursued by Wittgenstein, Platow and Tchichagoff.

We come now to the main Russian army, under the Prince of Smolensk. We have no detailed account of its movements. But Lord Cathcart's despatch of the 30th Nov. stated, that the advanced guard was to cross the Dnieper on the 29th, at Kopys, and that the remainder was to cross on the next day at the same time, marching by Starasele towards Bobr. His Lordship's next despatch, of the 6th Dec. is not more detailed, with respect to its movements, than his previous one. However, we know from it, that the advanced guard reached Borisow, and the rest was still advancing on a line parallel to, and southward of the main road from Smolensk to Minsk, but consederably in the rear of the present operations. We suppose the object of the Prince of Smolensk will be to get to the Warsaw line, thus interposing between the enemy retiring by Wilna and their resources. Of that force, so retiring by Wilna, we think a small part only will ever reach the Vistula. "It scarcely appears possible," adds Lord Cathcart, "that the remains of his army can get through these difficulties in presence of so many troops with artillery and cavalry, regular as well as irregular."

According to the accounts delivered into the War-Office at St. Petersburgh, from the correct details of the native commanders, the Russians have captured from the French in the present campaign, 128,000 men, 800 officers, of whom 25 are Generals, and 600 pieces of cannon.

LATE FOREIGN NEWS:

BY THE NORFOLK-PACKET, FROM LIVERPOOL.

GREAT-BRITAIN. LONDON, DEC 29, 1812.

DESPATCHES were last night received from Lord Cathcart, the last dated the 5th Dec. They announce more most glorious news. Since the last accounts, another Division of the French Army, including Five Generals, has surrendered; and nearly Twenty-five Thousand additional Prisoners taken!

Besides the particulars enumerated in the official despatches of Ru ssell, Wittgenstein, &c his Lordship says, "The attempt to blow up the Cathedral of Smolensk failed, the match being extinguished before it reached the mine.

"Ad. Tchechagoff, in his official letter of the 29th Nov. confirms the particulars of the great battle of the 28th, given by Gen. Wittgenstein. He closes his despatch by stating, the enemy was retreating, and he was marching in pursuit s and that before the battle of the 28 h, Napoleon, by calling to his aid, from the Dwina, the corps under Oudinot and Vic or, had united a force amounting to near 70,000 men; and that his guards, and the corps of Oudinot and Victor, were not in bad order, or defic ent in cavalry and artillery.

"Gen. Sacken had completely executed his orders Prince Schwar zenberg had twice approached Slonim, but Gen Sacken had also twice attacked Regnier, and obliged him to rejoin the Prince, after losing a standard and 1000 prisoners."

LONDON, JAN. 2. It is reported that Bonaparte has ordered 250,000 men to be ra sed, preparatory to the opening the of ensuing campaign. These levies on paper are always formidable.

The Cuirassiers, in ordinary, is to be cut down to a rance.

JAN. 9. Paris papers to the 5 h have been received; but they are as silent as he grave on the affairs of the Grand Army. Several officers have arrived there express, but they bring nothing. It is, however, a fact, that the Russian army, under Kutusoff, has made a flank movement on Minsk, &c. towards the Duchy of Warsaw; and has thus cut off the communication with Wilna.

The Star denies that Lord Walpole was dismissed from Vienna; on the cont rary, his Lordship was received at Vienna with every mark of distinction and favor; and how will these wretches tremble for the stability of their favorite dynasty, when we inform them that his Lordship's mission has been attended wi h effects even more auspicious to the overthrow of Bonaparte's power, than the most ardent friends of humanity could wish!

The French comedians a. Petersburg and Moscow have been discharged, and the fund which suppor ed them appropriated to the relief of the inhabitan s of those places which have been devastated by the savage enemy.

LONDON, JAN. 11, 1813. There are reports from France, that the remains of the French army had surrendered to Generals Tchichagoff and Wittgenstein.—That the Russians had pursued the French army, and interposed between it and the Duchy of Warsaw:—That several battles had been fought; and that the above surrender was the result. These reports add, that the French General Officers had been paroled; and that the advanced guard of the Russian army had entered the Ouchy of Warsaw.

☞CAPTURES by the AMERICANS.

CAPTURE OF THE FROLIC.

ADMIRALTY-OFFICE, DEC 26, 1812.

Sir J. B. WARREN has transmitted the following letter to this office:—

H. M. ship Poictiers, Oct 23, 1812.

SIR—It is with the most bitter sorrow and distress I have to report to your Excellency the capture of his Majesty's brig Frolic, by the ship Wasp belonging to the United States of America, on the 18th inst.

Having under convoy the homeward bound trade from the Bay of Honduras, and being in latitude 36 deg. N. and 64 deg. W. on the night of the 17 h, we were overtaken by a most violent gale of wind, in which the Frolic carried away her main-yard, lost her topsails, and sprung the main-topmast. On the morning of the 18th, as we were repairing damages sustained in the storm and reassembling the sca tered ships, a suspicious ship came in sight, and gave chase to the convoy.

The merchant ships continued their voyage before the wind under all sail; the Frolic dropt astern, and hoisted Spanish colors, in order to decoy the stranger under her guns, and to give time for the convoy o escape. About ten o'clock both vessels being within hail, we hauled to the wind, and the battle began. The superior fire of our guns gave every reason to expect its speedy termination in our favor, but the gaff-head braces being shot away, and there be ng no sail on the main-mast, the brig became unmanageable, and the enemy succeeded in taking a position to take her, while she was unable to bring a gun to bear.

After laying some time exposed to a most destructive fire, she fell with the bowsprit be wixt the enemy's main and mizzen rigging, still unable to return h s fire.

At length the enemy boarded, and made himself master of the brig, every individual officer being wounded, and the greater part of the men either killed or wounded, there not being twenty persons remaining unhurt.

Although I shall ever deplore the unhappy issue of this contest, it would be great injustice to the merits of the officers and crew, if I failed to re ort that their bravery and coolness are deserving of every praise; and I am convinced, if the Fro ic had not been crippled in the gale, I should have to make a very different report to your Excellency. The Wasp was taken, and the Frolic recaptured the same afternoon, by his Majesty's ship Poictiers. Being repaired from them, I cannot transmit at present a list of killed and wounded. Mr. Charles M'Kay, the First lieutenant, and Mr Stephens, the Master, have died of their wounds.

I have the hooor to be, &c. T. WINYATES.

☞Here follows a letter from Capt. BRADSHAW, of the Poictiers, informing, that he had fallen in with the ship Wasp and brig Frolic, a few hours after the capture of the latter, and sent them into port, after collecting the Frolic's convoy. He adds, "The conduct of Capt. Whinyates, who I regret to say is wounded, and his crew, appears to have been so decidedly gallant, that I have been induced to continue him in the command of the Frolic, until your pleasure is known."

CAPTURE OF THE MACEDONIAN.

Admiralty-Office, Dec. 29, 1812.

The Secretary of the Admiralty has received the following letter from Capt. J. S. CARDEN, late commander of his Majesty's ship the Macedonian—dated

On board the American ship the United States, at sea, the 28th Oct. 1812.

SIR—It is with the deepest regret I have to acquaint you, for the information of my Lords commissioners of the Admiralty, that his Majesty's late ship Macedonian was captured on the 25 h inst. by the U. States' ship United States, Commodore Decatur, commander: the details as follows:—

A short time after day light, steering N. W. by W. with the wind from the southward, in lat. 29 deg N and long. 29 deg. 30 min. W. in the execution of their Lordships' orders, a sail was seen on the lee beam, which I immedia ely stood for and made her out to be a large frigate under American colors: at 9 o'clock I closed with her, and she commenced the action, which was returned, but for the enemy keeping two points off the wind I was not enabled to get as close to her as I could have wished.

After an hour's action the enemy backed and came to the wind, and I was then enabled to bring her to close battle; in his situation I soon found the enemy's force too superior to expect success, unless some very fortuna e chance occurred in our favor, and with this hope I continued the battle to two hours and ten minutes, when, having the mizzenmast shot away by the board, topmasts shot away by the cap, main yard hot in pieces, lower masts badly wounded, lower rigging in pieces, lower masts badly wounded, lower rigging in pieces, lower mast badly wounded, fore-yard cut to pieces, a and I perso ion only of the foresail left to be fore yard, all the guns on the quarter deck and forecastle disabled but two, and filled with wreck, two also on the main deck disabled, and several shot be ween wind and water, a very great proportion of he crew killed and wounded and the enemy comparatively in good order, who had now also ahead and was about to place himself in a raking position, without our being enabled to re non the fire, being a perfect wreck and unmanageable ing, I deemed it prudent, though a painful es imate, to surrender his Majesty's ship, nor was this dreadful alternative resorted to till every hope of success was removed, even beyond the reach of chance, nor till, I trust, their Lordships will be aware every effort had been made against the enemy by myself, our brave officers and men, nor should she have been surrendered whilst a man lived on board, had she been manageable.

I am sorry to say our loss has been very severe; I find by this day's muster thirty six killed, three of whom lingered a short time after the ba tle, thirty-six severely wounded, many of whom cannot recover, and thirty two sl ghtly wounded, who may all do well—total 104.

The truly noble and animating conduct of my officers, and the steady bravery of my crew, to the last moment of the battle, must ever render them dear to their country.

My first Lieut. David Hope was severely wounded in the head towards the close of the bat le, and taken below; but was soon again on deck, displaying that greatness of mind and exertion, which, though it may be equalled, can never be excelled; the third Lt. John Bulford, was also wounded, but not obliged to quit his quarters; second Lt. Samuel Montley, and he, deserve my highest acknowledgments. The cool and steady conduct of Mr. Walker, the master, was very great during the battle, as also that of Lieuts. Willson and Magill, of the marines.

On being taken on board the enemy's ship I cea ed to wonder at the result of the battle. The United S ates is built with the scantling of a 74 gun ship, mounting 30 long 24-pounders (English ship guns) on her main deck, and 22 32-pounders carronades, with two long 24-poundrs on her quarter deck and forecastle, however guns in her tops, and a travelling carronade on her upper deck, with a complement of 478 p cked men.

The enemy has suffered much in masts, rigging, and hull above and below water; he has also been killed and wounded I am not aware of, but I know a Lieut. and six men have been thrown overboard.

JONA. S. CAROEN.

THE MAILS.

BRITISH ACCOUNT

Of the defeat of Gen. WINCHESTER's Army.

PORT-DEPOSIT, JAN. 30.

LIEUT. MCLEON passed here yesterday from Maden, with despatches, announcing the capture of Gen. Winchester's army, of 30 officers and 538 men, exclusive of nearly 500 who fell in the field of battle.

Col. PROCTOR, who commands a Detroit, apprized of the approach of Winchester to the River Raisin, collected as large a force as his means would admit, and proceeded against him. Finding him strongly entrenched in the village called Frenchtown, some of the houses of which were stockaded, he made immediate arrangements for attacking him, which were gallantly executed at the point of the bayonet, after a determined resistance of an hour and an half.

Though the loss of the enemy has been great, ours also has been very serious; amounting to 24 killed and 158 wounded, two thirds of the latter belonging to the 41st regt. We had no officer killed, but Lt. Col. St. George, who led the attack, received four wounds; Capt. Aiken and Lt. Clemon, of the 41st, Lt. Troughton, of the artillery, Lts. Rolette and Irvine, Ensigns Kerr and Newkirk. Ylr. Richardson, of the marine department; and Capt. Mills, Lt. M'Cormic and Lt. Gordon, of the militia, are wounded —some we fear mortally.

All did their duty. The Indians behaved nobly, and the instant the enemy submitted, their forbearance, as on former occasions was strikingly conspicuous. Gen. Winchester is a prisoner.

NIAGARA, JAN. 30. Maj. Evans is just despatched with the glorious news of the en ire destruction of another army Gen. Wench-ster and his corps, are prisoners to the brave 41st reg, and Upper Canada militia, directed by he judgment and p ompt decision of Col. Proctor. Our loss incl ding regular- and militia, is 27 killed, and 155 wounded — The victory was comp ete, the number of he enemy killed being more than 500, and the prisoners equal in the force we had engaged.... Joy unalloyed pervades all ranks here, and we are ready for another opportunity to convince the enemy that he has no rolling difficulties to encounter before he conquers Upper Canada.

MONTREAL, FEB 6, 1813.

Major EVANS arrived last night with the official advices of he victory of Colonel PROCTOR over General WINCHESTER's army. The General having advanced with 1100 men to within 20 miles of Detroit, Colonel PROCTOR marched out, attacked him a day break of the 22d in the village of Reisin, and after a bloody conflict, the whole Amer can force, with their General, were killed or taken. From the na ure of the attack, and the means the enemy had of defending themselves, nine of the houses being stockaded, our loss was great, being 27 killed, and 155 wounded. Two officers were mortally wounded, and several o hers slightly. Col. PROCTOR's force consisted of 360 regulars, 150 militia, and some Indians.

Return of Prisoners taken—1 Brigadier-General, 1 Colonal, 1 Major, 9 Cap ains, 6 Lieutenants, 1 Brigade-Major, 1 Adjutant, 1 Quarter-Master, 2 Surgeons, 27 Sergeants, 455 rank and file—Total 493.

After the battle nine prisoners were bringing in by the Indians. They took an her army, viz—300 large Hogs, from Kentucky, and killed 100 men who had them in charge.

A large body of Americans are advancing towards Chicago, on Lake Michigan, and the Indian Chief Muarpotot, with 2000 Indians, from the Mississip, have gone against him.

In the second place, as the whole subject, refer ed to, is in the course of regular judicial inquiry no inferences or opinions, upon evidence which is yet to come before a jury, ought to be published. The examination before a justice, is necessarily partial, and for the most part, the evidence is ex parte. If, however, it should be deemed proper, by those in erested, in these prosecutions, to comment upon evidence, or establishing any fact hereafter to be inquired into, the persons complained of will have no objections to publish the whole evidence, and discuss its merits before the public. THE HOBBIES.—A PARODY.

TUNE—

WHAT each has his Hobby we're not now to learn,
The doctrine's authentic, we have it in Sterne.
His hobby was wit, humor, pathos, combin'd,
Uncle Toby rode foremost, and Trim jog'd behind.

All on hobbies, &c.

Great WASHINGTON's hobby, from first dawning youth,
Was virtue and valor, and wisdom and truth;
While Jefferson's hobby—on Chesterfield's plan,
Was to rise in the statesman, but sink in the man.

That was his hobby, &c.

JAY's hobby was country—he ne'er would forsake her,
As wise as old Plato, and plain as a Quaker,
Burnt for treaties in effigy, slander'd his fame,
Like the Phœnix more vig'rous he rose from the flame.

His country's his hobby, &c.

FRANKLIN's hobby was lightening-rods, thunder and
How he joy'd to bestride the electrical wire! [fire,
When Oppression's bolt strove Freedom's fane to disjoint,
He repell'd the explosion, and stuck to the point.

That was his hobby, &c.

Britain's hobby's her Navy the nations to awe,
Curb the tyrant of France, and to Ocean give law;
Napoleon's hobby is policy sly,
And his empire (like Satan's) is built on a lie.

Power's their hobby, &c.

The Jacobin's hobby's to lie without shame,
When probity better would answer their aim;
Should they happen to blunder on truth by mistake,
They start and turn pale as if bit by a snake.

Lying's their hobby, &c.

The Federalist's hobby to talk, not to act is,
In theory perfect, deficient in practice,
Like the victim of Gotta they sleep without fear,
And permit the Philistines their tresses to shear.

That's their hobby, &c.

GILMAN's hobby thro' life was to act well his part,
From the law no temptation could make him depart,
All the wise and the good, who beheld his just rule,
Hail with blessings this pupil of WASHINGTON's School.

He's our hobby, &c.

Connecticut's hobby's to manage the beast,
Of all States in the Union corrupted the least;
Massachusetts' fine hobby still canters along,
With ease and with grace; for the charger is STRONG.

STRONG's our hobby, &c.

Our hobby's New-England, who ne'er like a ninny,
Will submit to the nod of slave-making Virginia,
Till Tom's doughty gun-boats, and Matt's wooden fences,
Capture Britain's whole navy, and conquer all France.

New-England's our hobby, &c.

Obituary.

DEATHS:—In New-York, Mr. AB. A. HART, Æt. 25.—Mr. EDITH. W. CLOSE, Æt. 45.——In Dorchester, Captain EDWARD BISO, Æ. 47.——In Charlestown, Mr. JOSEPH CHILD, Æt. 63.——In Boston, Mr. BENJAMIN OCKINGTON, Æt. 31.

At sea, Jan. 28th, on board the U.S. frigate Constitution, of wounds received in the action with the Java, Lieut. JOHN CUSHING AYLWIN, of the U. S. navy. He entered the service about the time war was declared, as a Sailing-Master, and was promoted to a Lieutenant for his gallant conduct in the action with the "Guerriere." He was an officer of great merit, much esteemed by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. To him his country has sufficed a great loss. He had seen much of the world, and improved his opportunities of observation—possessed a strong mind, with much benevolence of disposition.

In the action with the "Guerriere," he stood on an elevated situation by the side of his brave comrades, MORRIS and BUSH, at the time the two vessels came in contact, and was wounded in the left shoulder by a musket ball. In the late action he commanded the forecastle division, and his deliberate bravery, and marked coolness throughout the contest, gained him the admiration of his commander and all who had an opportunity of witnessing it. When boarders were called to repel boarders, he mounted the quarter deck hammock-cloths, and in the act of firing his pistols at the enemy, he received a ball through the same shoulder. Notwithstanding the serious nature of his wound, he continued at his post until the enemy struck. A few days after the action, although laboring under considerable debility, and the most excruciating pain, he left his bed and repaired to quarters, when an engagement was expected with a ship which afterwards proved to be the "Hornet." He bore his pain with great and unusual fortitude, and expired without a groan.

NOTICE.

WE the Subscribers, having been appointed by His Excellency the Governor, with advice of Council, a Committee, on the application of the Proprietors of the Canal Bridge, so called, over Charles-River, representing that the premium by them heretofore given, as required by the act of incorporation, to the master of every vessel of certain descriptions, as in said act mentioned, passing through the drawer of said Bridge, is in their estimation far too high, and very unjust in its operation"—to hear the parties, examine the premises, and increase or diminish said premium as to us shall appear just and reasonable.

After notice given in the Columbian Centinel and Independent Chronicle, printed at Boston, and all persons interested, having met, heard the parties, and carefully attended to the evidence produced by them respectively, and having examined the premises, we are of opinion that it is just and reasonable, and do award that the said premium be reduced to seven cents per ton.
